

Jap Peace Talks a Failure?

Expressions on the faces of Japanese Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, left, and the special envoy, Saburo Kurosu, as they entered, top, and departed, below, from the latest White House conference with President Roosevelt on the tense Pacific situation tell, better than words, reported failure of the Japanese-U. S. peace talks. Happy, smiling faces of the envoys, top, are changed to expressions of seriousness in the photo below. Secretary of State Cordell Hull's document, embodying the basic principles which the U. S. considers essential to keeping peace in the Pacific, was being studied by high Japanese government officials, but the Japanese press asserted that it was displeasing to Japan and that a compromise is impossible.

SENATE GETS CONTROL BILL

Badly Battered Price Measure Not Likely To Be Law Until '42

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A badly battered version of the administration's anti-inflation price control bill rested on the senate's doorstep today after a wearing trip through the house, but there seemed little chance of it becoming law before next year.

The legislation, which President Roosevelt requested four months ago to avert the threat of unchecked inflation arising from the huge defense spending program, passed the house last night by a roll call vote of 224 to 161, but only at the cost of major concessions and several defeats for administration forces.

Senate leaders indicated that while committee consideration of the measure might begin relatively soon, there was little chance of senate action on it at this session.

House "Operates"

The house performed a number of major operations on the measure, including changes which some members contended would be fatal. Administration leaders privately expressed hope, however, that

Mrs. Frank Nelson Dies Here, Victim Of "Rabbit Fever"

Tentative Diagnosis Shows Tularemia; Husband Reported Seriously Ill of Same Disease; Cleaned Rabbit Ten Days Ago

Mrs. Pearl F. Nelson, 49, of 445 S. Broadway, wife of Frank Nelson, died at 4:30 p. m. Friday in the Central Clinic as the result of tularemia, rabbit disease, complicated by a diabetic condition, according to a tentative diagnosis.

The husband is reported to be seriously ill at home as the result of a similar infection.

Although the report on a blood test taken four days ago has not been received, the attending physician indicated that both, apparently, were made ill through contact with the diseased rabbit.

Mr. Nelson took sick suddenly the day after he skinned a rabbit which he shot on a hunting trip about two weeks ago. Mrs. Nelson, who is believed to have been infected when she helped to clean the animal in preparation for cooking, was stricken two days later. She entered the clinic last Tuesday.

Infection comes from handling the carcass of a diseased rabbit and not in the eating of the meat, one doctor explained.

Mr. Nelson is employed as a crossing watchman by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

Born at Maysville, Ky., June 3, 1892, Mrs. Nelson was the daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Pugh. She had lived in Salem for 20 years, coming here from Cincinnati. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving are her husband, one sister, Mrs. Milton Shaw, living in Kentucky, a brother, Oscar Thompson, also of Kentucky and four nieces, Mrs. John King, Mrs. John Summers, Mrs. William Allison and Mrs. Margaret Long, all of Salem.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home in charge of Rev. S. T. Magann, pastor of the Baptist church. Burial will be in Hope cemetery.

LISBON, Nov. 2.—Six employees of the probate court department went unpaid when other Columbiana county courthouse employees received their regular pay checks today.

The $477.50 payroll for the probate department was short $240, with no money remaining to meet the Dec. 15 payroll.

County Auditor Ross Tisher said, however, that an attempt would be made Monday to raise the present deficit by transferring from another fund.

organizations to attend an open meeting which will be held in court room No. 2 at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Ask Views on Levy

The session has been called to discuss the county's financial situation and to ascertain sentiment on the re-submission of a 2-mill levy which was passed by a majority at the November 4 election but failed to obtain the required 65 per cent necessary for adoption.

County officials now question the advisability of holding a special election in seeking passage of the levy, with several special levies, advanced by cities, tied in as "riders."

President Frank Fisher of the board of commissioners said the county's financial difficulties will reach a crisis next year unless some source of revenue is found to bolster the general operating fund.

In addition to the removal of a mill which had been levied illegally, resulting in a loss of $90,000 annually, the county will suffer the loss of approximately $30,000 because the legislature failed to reenact, or earmark for counties, the beer, wort, malt and admissions tax which will now accrue to the state's general fund.

Loss School Money

A third sum which the county expects to lose next year is an anticipated demand of $64,000 by county school districts, the amount to which they are entitled by law. Districts this year did not receive the full amount, but were granted amounts asked in their budgets. The East Liverpool City school district later sought to collect the full amount, and although the board of tax appeals ruled in favor of the county, an appeal is still pending in the matter.

An estimate of revenue for 1942 lists $325,000 as compared with this year's budget of $411,700 which will still leave a deficit of approximately $49,000 on Dec. 31, Fisher stated.

Asks Flood Funds

IRONTON, Nov. 29.—Ironton must contribute an additional $30,000 for its portion of the cost of the $3,000,000 flood defense system under construction. City Manager Ralph Mittendorf notified common council. Raising the municipalities share to $465,000, the added funds will pay for levee ramps and cleanup work. Mittendorf said.

Will Repair Bridge

LISBON, Nov. 28.—County Engineer Charles Snyder today began preparations for the repair of one of the bridge spanning Cold Run in Center township. The single span of oak construction will be repaired with a piece of oak, due to inability to secure iron girders, Engineer Snyder said.

STATE'S READY TO 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING'

Will Issue Daily Reports On Surface Conditions To Aid Traffic

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29.—Ohio, prepared to keep its highways open this winter as a defense transportation aid, will issue daily reports on surface conditions to speed the flow of traffic.

Highway Director Hal G. Sours announced today that his department's road-condition reporting service is far in advance of any services offered by any highway department in the country or by any other agency," he asserted.

Here's how it operates:

Road condition information is telephoned from outlying points to four state highway patrol sub-stations and transmitted to the patrol's central unit for broadcasting daily at 8 a. m., noon and 7 p. m.

Short wave patrol broadcasts are received by municipal police, sheriff's offices, automobile clubs and other organizations. Early morning telegrams also are sent to news services and commercial radio stations for general use.

Travel conditions thus are available daily to Ohio's 2,000,000 motor vehicle owners through the press, radio and other agencies. Sours said, and operators of trucks, buses and private vehicles can be advised of conditions to be avoided.

Winter road conditioning crews have been organized and will be on call to clear and cinder highways promptly during bad weather. All is in readiness to "keep 'em rolling" regardless of the weather, Sours added.

ALTAR PRESENTED TO GOSHEN GRANGE

When Goshen grange met Friday evening, Albert Capel, master-elect of Goshen Juvenile grange presented to the subordinate grange a fine new altar, the work of Harvey Bates of Goshen grange. It was accepted by the master, J. S. Hollinger.

At the next meeting of Goshen grange the juveniles will have charge of the lecture hour program, and at the meeting to be held Friday, Dec. 26, the juveniles will be guests of the subordinate grange at a Christmas party, in recognition of their fine work this year.

One candidate was obligated in the first and second degrees, and one in the third and fourth. Ernest Kempler, who has been elected master, resigned as a member of the executive committee, and Roy Capel was elected to fill his unexpired term.

Plans were completed at this meeting for the entertainment of Mahoning County Pomona grange, which will meet Saturday evening at Goshen grange hall. Officers will be installed, the session being open to all Fourth degree grangers.

A Thanksgiving program was presented in charge of Lecturer Ray Miller. At the conclusion of it the members observed a period of silent tribute in memory of Walter F. Kirk, master of Ohio State grange, who died as a result of an automobile accident. His funeral will be held Sunday, at Port Clinton, his home.

Victory V Is Patented: How About W for Wallop?

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 29.—P. P. Scott, Tulsa salesman who got a patent on the "V" (for victory) emblem, strongly suspects somebody in Cincinnati is kidding.

A news story about his idea brought scores of telegrams. One was from three Xavier football players. It said:

"Xavier university footballers hoped to use V for victory as slogan for game with Georgetown university Saturday but Cincinnati newspaper press services report you have it patented."

"Advise if we can use W for wallop."

IRISH GRID CHIEF IS COACH OF YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Frank Leahy of Notre Dame has been voted "coach of the year" in the seventh annual poll of the nation's football mentors conducted by the World-Telegram.

Of 274 coaches who participated in the contest, 58 cast their ballots for Leahy, who did not suffer a defeat in his first year at South Bend, Bernie Bierman, whose Minnesota team has piled up 17 straight victories, ran a close second with 54 votes.

Earl Blaik of Army placed third with 27, while Paul Brown, Ohio State's youthful mentor, was fourth with 18.

PASTOR'S WIFE FATALLY HURT

Massillon Woman Dies of Injuries In Traffic Accident

Funeral service will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran church at Massillon Monday afternoon for Mrs. Caroline Hax, 65, who died Thursday night of injuries she suffered in a head-on automobile collision on Pennsylvania Route 51, just east of East Palestine, at 6 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. F. B. Hax, the woman's husband, is pastor of the Massillon church.

Mr. Hax was riding with her husband when he lost control of the car momentarily and it struck another machine operated by Mrs. Amy Grise of East Palestine, hospital attendants here learned.

Mrs. Grise, her daughter, Betty, and another passenger in their car, were treated at Salem City hospital. Mrs. Grise received a fractured right ankle and lacerations; the daughter, Betty, possible broken right ankle and lacerations, and Mrs. Robson, lacerations of the face and legs.

YOUNGSTOWN, Nov. 29.—George McKnight, 50, hurt in Friday's fog when his car sideswiped a school bus a few miles outside of the city, died last night.

His death was the 72nd traffic fatality in Mahoning county this year, as against 68 in all of 1941.

COMPLETES COURSE AS RADIO OPERATOR

Paul Strader, Jr., of Salem, now a member of Company E, 32nd armored regiment at Camp Polk, La., recently arrived at the Louisiana post following his graduation as a radio operator from the radio school at Fort Knox, Ky.

Strader, who expects to receive a Christmas holiday furlough, has been assigned permanently to the 32nd armored division, which includes about 10,000 men and is rated as one of the U. S. Army's modernized units. It is reaching its goal of full equipment.

The camp itself is situated only 20 miles from Texas and 100 miles south of Shreveport, La. The division is known as the "Bayou Blitz" because of its location, high on a sandy hill, surrounded by the swamps and bayous of Louisiana.

Named to Captaincy

ALLIANCE, Nov. 29.—Appointment this week of James A. Coy to a captaincy in the Alliance police department gives the force three captains for the first time in its history.

Coy, a patrolman nearly a quarter of a century, was promoted when the department went on a three-shift basis. He received the highest grade in a recent civil service examination.

The other police captains are Harry L. Groves and A. O. Lower.

MOSCOW RADIO SAYS GERMANS DRIVEN BACK

Russians Cross Volga On Ice, Rout Nazis From Town After Town

INVADERS HELD AT OTHER POINTS

Nazi Flank Movement Southwest of Tula Is Slowing Down

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—Powerful Red army counter-attack northwest of Moscow in which Russian forces were said to have crossed the Volga on the ice and driven the Germans out of town after town in an advance not yet checked was reported today by the Moscow radio.

Quoting dispatches to Izvestia, the broadcast said that at many places along the hard-pressed defense arc in front of the Soviet capital the Nazi onslaught had been held to a standstill for several days, and that the Nazi flanking movement southeast of Tula was being slowed down in intense fighting.

The latest Russian counter-thrust northwest of the capital was said to have been launched in the dusk Thursday near Kalinin, 90 miles northwest of Moscow.

(A British radio report said the Red army thrust was aimed southeast against the flank of the wedge the Germans had driven into the Kalinin section between Kalinin and the capital.)

The Moscow radio declared that heavy fighting continued throughout Thursday night and Friday as Russian troops battered their way through German defensive positions which had been shelled by Russian artillery.

Russian troops which crossed the Volga ice were said to have established lines on the southern bank, southeast of Kalinin. Villages identified as "L," "B" and "I" were reported recaptured, and the Russians said they beat back German counter attacks and "occupied the strongly-fortified German center of resistance in K."

"Under steady pressure of our units," the broadcast asserted, "the enemy is slowly retreating in a number of places, still trying to halt our advance."

Yule Savings Club Checks Are Mailed

Monday will bring pre-Christmas cheer to approximately 2,437 patrons of Salem banks who will share in a distribution of $64,000 in Christmas Savings club accounts. The First National and Farmers National banks expected today to place the checks in the mails to insure their delivery by Monday.

The $64,000 Christmas club fund is a record, surpassing by $17,000 the $67,000 distributed a year ago.

The First National bank will release $51,000 in club savings to 1,567 depositors. The Farmers National bank expects to divide $53,000 among 930 persons.

ANOTHER BULLDOG JOINS NAVY FORCE

PORT CLINTON, Nov. 29.—The first of the navy's new "bulldog" coastwise boats, similar to those used by the British in hit-and-run raids in the English channel, sits comfortably in the water today.

Vanguard of 30 to be built in the Great Lakes region for the United States navy, the 40-foot, Diesel-powered motor launch slipped her heavily-planked bow down the ways at the Matthews Boat Co. plant here yesterday.

Warrant Officers Frederick J. Bartlett, test officer for the navy, said the "bulldogs" carry 90 men or 13,000 pounds of freight. They are used for transporting U. S. defense forces from ship to shore along friendly naval bases in the western hemisphere.

Scheduled to slide down the ways at the rate of two a week, the boats have a cruising range of 200 miles, can make 10 knots, and cost approximately one cent a mile to operate.

OHIOANS IN A MAJORITY

Democrats still profess to be happy because Gov. Bricker doesn't want to dish out surplus sales tax revenue to the cities. This, they say, has given them the political issue that will beat the governor when he runs for reelection.

The Democrats could be wrong about this. They could be wrong because Ohioans are in a majority, and this is money belonging to them, not to the municipalities drooling at the prospect of getting their hands on it. They could be wrong because by next year, if tax revenues decline as they are expected to, little something to fall back on in the state treasury might be as welcome as a raft in a flood. They could be wrong because by next year when the Democrats in Washington have had to take the rap for sweating the already dehydrated taxpayer for all he's worth any governor or public official whatsoever who is running on a record of rapping the knuckles of the liberals who make their reputations by spending other people's money may be able to romp into office by default.

These are changing times, and it wouldn't be surprising if one of the things changing most is that greatly overworked formula of the decade now drawing to a close—spend and spend and elect and elect.

RUSSIA'S NAPOLEON WEATHER

The wishful thinking that has been almost as useful to Germany as its tanks and dive bombers apparently has left dissenters to Hitler's "new order" high and dry again. The famous Russian Napoleon weather that was going to cool off the Nazis invading Russia (everybody hoped) seems to be having relatively little effect, there has been a "November offensive."

It now is being remembered belatedly that the Finns and Russians, the previous time they fought managed to keep fighting much farther north than present scenes of combat all winter. The Russians had a great deal of trouble with motorized equipment, but they brought it into use throughout the worst weather of the year.

Napoleon bogged down on the retreat from Moscow because of a combination of bad weather and disorganized supply. When his men and horses quit having enough to eat and could not fall back on adequate shelter to conserve their waning strength, they were helpless. The German army, which has the benefit of possibly the most efficient supply system ever devised, is anything but helpless. Unless stalled by snow, which might ground its planes and certainly would slow up its tanks, the northern German army may spend the winter in Moscow yet.

AND THAT IS THE QUESTION

The question about price control, according to Leon Henderson who would administer whatever law might be passed, is whether the United States wants it or not. Or to put it another way, if the United States wanted price control, the rest would be easy. But the United States isn't sure.

Specifically, its wage earners want prices to be held down, but not at the expense of holding down their wages. If price control can be handled by holding down profits and farm prices, fine and dandy.

And the farmers think it's a shame the way wage earners keep wanting more money and businessmen keep their eyes fastened on profit, but if price control meant putting a ceiling on farm prices, too, that would be like burning down the barn to get the horse out.

And businessmen, of course, are strongly opposed to the way overhead keeps getting farther and farther over their heads, but naturally they would be reluctant to give government any more leeway than it already has through income taxation to put a ceiling on their own profits.

Probably the only people in the United States who want price control and don't act immediately that they want it at somebody else's expense are those with nothing to lose if a law against making hay while the sun is shining is passed. Because this minority of the population is so small to make much headway against the larger minorities with axes to be ground, it is absolutely safe to predict that one of two things will happen. Either there will be no price control law passed, or if such a law is passed it will be equipped with no teeth capable of doing more than looking moderately formidable at first glance.

JAPAN'S JUDGMENT IS BAD

Once more, it looks as though negotiations with Japan were breaking up.

Japan's statesmen are doing their level best, no doubt, to land on their feet when the debris from the latest world explosion begins to settle. Like everybody else, they are guessing. Because they either are militarists or must take orders from militarists, they are predisposed to string along with the side they fear. And this is not the time to forget that the current era of aggression was opened officially by Japan, with seizure of Manchukuo. Japan is no recent convert to blood-letting for conquest.

If policy-making Japanese were positive the United States could emerge from the war victorious and in a mood to punish the opposition, they probably would be earnestly trying to conciliate this country, instead of trying to make a play for Adolf Hitler's favor. Since they clearly are determined to string along with Germany's prowl policy, which they helped to develop, there seems nothing for the United States to do but accept the fact.

Japanese judgment on the outcome of the war may be wrong, but apparently the United States lacks sufficient power of persuasion at this time to change the Japanese mind. It is plain to Americans that Japan has nothing to gain by playing close to the Axis but humiliation if Germany wins and ruin if Germany loses, but for some reason it must not be plain to the Japanese—or at least to the handful of men who are holding Japan's fate in their hands.

As they apparently see it, Germany is going to win the war and they are going to have everything in Asia their way on a downhill drag. That's their story and it's beginning to look as though they might be stuck with it.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, November 30

SUNDAY'S horoscope indicates progress, with some unforeseen and sudden opportunity for putting over cherished projects of a new, novel or reformatory nature. While personal effort may be well directed in such fresh lines, it is best to be prepared for want of cooperation or appreciation from large groups, organizations or public bodies. But refrain from disputes and controversy.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which some of their novel original or adventurous programs may find progress despite some very definite and rigid antagonism and want of support from public opinion, groups, collective or community interests. Such measures may be in the nature of reforms. Firm and sustained effort on sound plans should eventually win out.

A child born on this day should be original, energetic, independent in thought and action. It may have a unique talent which will antagonize the public.

For Monday, December 1

Monday's astrological forecast is for continued effort and progress in lines out of the usual, and while there are signs of energetic and well-directed endeavors, practical and sound, which will have support of those who discern such worthy and meritorious projects, yet there may be danger to be expected from hidden, treacherous, subtle sources. Be alert.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to go ahead with their exceptional unusual, or revolutionary plans, pursuing them with vigor and enterprise. Date to be original, to give a fresh slant to old or new projects and ideas, and this will assure support of appreciative capital or friendly interest, in spite of intrigues, or subtle attempts to ensnare or undermine. Hold firmly to constructive and progressive thinking and all will flourish.

A child born on this day will be original in its ideas, energetic in performance and successful against odds.

A DISEASE OF CIVILIZATION

Irritable Colon Known by Varied Names

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The irritable colon is the disorder of digestion that the medical profession is called upon most frequently to treat. The colon is the large bowel. Irritable colon is sometimes called colitis, mucous colitis, spastic bowel, spastic constipation.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

It is a disease of civilization and especially of highly industrialized civilization. "Today few succeed in a business or profession without 'living it.' The successful man takes his occupation to the dinner table with him, takes it to the concert and frequently works out knotty problems while wide-eyed in bed at 2:00 a. m. The modern sales manager is urged by his superiors to keep up his sales and he in turn must urge his assistants, often against his will, to function under terrific pressure."

Not many men are able to stand the strain for three or four years without developing some form of nervous indigestion because the digestive canal is most responsive to storms in the higher nervous centers.

Wrong Diets

These irritations also often have their source in the diet. Too often in our modern civilization of high pressure advertising, the wrong person is persuaded to eat the wrong diet with too much roughage and not enough meat. The food faddist almost invariably wants to keep us away from meat, which of all foods is the easiest for the human animal to digest.

OUR READERS

SECRET SESSIONS

Editor, The News: Congratulations on your writeup exposing secrecy of city officials on city hall changes. Don't they realize they are only hired men of John Q. Public who pays their salary? Just why the secrecy?

Only a few months ago, council claimed a shrinkage in water works fund, now when they want to use money for less important things than our water problem, they dip into that reserve that is so badly needed for water system improvement. Well at least they can not place the blame on Service Director Kennedy this time.

Why worry about the fire marshal's orders anyway? Better worry about the motive and people back of his order to raze Columbiana county jail, and now our city hall, that is far more substantial than some other buildings in fire zone. In addition to the extra expense, how much safer are proposed new quarters for police and fire departments?

The Harris garage is desirable for service and water departments, but with oil tanks nearby and traffic congestion at railroad crossing, one wonders at lack of city hall brains in removing the department to that location. At foot of Columbia st. on west side of Broadway would be a far better location and handy to factory district, out of heavy State route traffic, to say nothing of difference in final cost.

Why not create the office of water works superintendent under Civil Service, make him responsible for his department free from politics, and use the water works funds for that purpose alone, not a political pork barrel? Abolish office of city foreman, as service director could be his own foreman, and act as service and safety director combined as larger cities do?

Announces Sermon For Loyalty Sunday

Special Loyalty Sunday will be observed at both the 10 o'clock and the 11 o'clock services. At the 10 o'clock service the pastor will preach a timely sermon on "The Dead World and the Spirit of Life." The text for the sermon is written in the book of Ezekiel 37, 1-11.

"Many are called (invited), but few are chosen" (Matthew 22:14), because only a few regularly, religiously, gladly, willingly, earnestly heed the divine call: Come To Church.

The Sunday school with classes for all ages meets at 9 a. m. The pastor's Bible class meets at 9:15 a. m., Lee Schaefer, superintendent.

The Human Harvest

In the blessed season of harvest good grain and products are stored away for winter or future use. Keen eyes also see that weeds and bad fruit are passed by, thrown away or burned up. Jesus noted the weeds and wheat growing together side by side until harvest time. He set forth the parable of the good and evil close to each other in the world, even in the church. He promised they would be separated at the end.

We are ready to cry out for the uprooting of evil men as soon as we become aware of them. With John and James we would call down the fire of heaven upon the wicked—Luke 9:54. We need the patience and wisdom behind Christ's advice. "Let them grow side by side till harvest"—Matthew 13:30.

God is not willing that any should perish. He gave His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, to die as our Substitute bearing the eternal punishment against our sins on His cross. And God patiently is giving us all the golden opportunity right now to accept Jesus as our personal Savior, so that we "shall not come into judgment, but pass from death to life."

The Sunday school teachers and officers will meet on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church. The church council meets on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Every faithful council member will attend.

Wednesday at 4 p. m., Junior confirmation instruction.

Thursday at 4 p. m., Senior confirmation instruction.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., Choir practice.

Christian Science Services Announced

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the lesson sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow at 11 a. m. The Sunday service is also broadcast over Station WCLE (610 Kil) Cleveland the 1st and 3rd Sundays of each month at 11 a. m. Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years is held at 9:30 a. m. The mid-week service is held the 1st Wednesday of each month at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Let not your prophets and your diviners, that be in the midst of you, deceive you. . . . For they prophesy falsely unto you in my name: I have not sent them, saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 23:8-9).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thou shalt have none other gods before me. . . . Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth" (Deuteronomy 5:7-8).

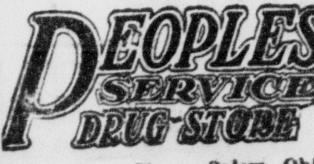

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The material senses originate and support all that is material, untrue, selfish, or debased. They would put soul into soil, life into limbo, and doom all things to decay. We must silence this lie of material sense with the truth of spiritual sense" (p. 318).

This society maintains a Reading Room at 136 So. Broadway where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. Open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the services and visit the Reading room.

"God's Advent Visitation" Is Trinity Lutheran Topic

"God's Advent Visitation" will be the topic of Rev. George D. Kessler of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow. Morning worship will begin at 11 o'clock.

Children of the church meet at 11 a. m. in Sunday school room.

The Season of Advent begins on the Sunday nearest Nov. 30th, which is St. Andrew's day, and extends for four Sundays to Christmas eve. The word Advent means "coming." This season speaks of the threefold coming of Christ, His coming in great humility to the world, His coming in great glory to judge the world and His coming into our hearts. Advent is considered one of the greater festivals of the Christian year. Advent is a season partly of sorrow and partly of joy. While the altar paraments have the color that signifies sorrow, the Scripture lessons emphasize a note of joy.

Miss Dorothy Benzinger Bride At Wedding In Philadelphia

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Benzinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland F. Benzinger of 1241 E. State st., to Findlay G. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Deveau H. Reed of 2004 Duquesne st., McKeesport, Pa., was solemnized at 7:30 p. m. Friday in Holy Trinity Episcopal church in Philadelphia.

Rev. E. Frank Salmon performed the ceremony, at which Mrs. Herbert Piper Lindsley of Wichita, Kan., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and William Walker McCune of Philadelphia was best man.

Wedding music included "Tristan and Isolde" (Wagner); the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) for processional; and "The Wedding March" (Mendelssohn) for recessional.

The church was beautifully decorated with altar vases of white chrysanthemums and white candles in candelabra.

Bride Wears White
The bride's gown was a white tailored crepe with fringe skirt, worn with ostrich tip hat with shoulder length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white bouvardia, sweet peas and gold Rothschild red-tipped lilies.

Her sister wore a purple full-skirted crepe gown with fitted bodice embroidered with pearls and gold, and an ostrich tip hat in blending shades of purple, pink and turquoise.

Mrs. Benzinger, mother of the bride, wore a wine crepe gown with corsage of Rubrum lilies, and Mrs. Reed, mother of the groom, was in black velvet with corsage of white gardenias.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony at the Barclay hotel in Philadelphia.

Live In Philadelphia
Following a wedding trip to Sky Top Lodge, Pocono mountains, for a week, Mr. and Mrs. Reed will make their home at 1616 Pine st., Philadelphia.

The bride, a graduate of Salem High school in 1934, attended Sweet Briar college and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania school of fine arts. She is a designer of furniture and interiors. Mrs. Reed is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

The groom, a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, received his B. S. degree from the Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania. He is a special agent for the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co.

Guests at the ceremony and dinner included parents of the bride and groom, the matron of honor, Mrs. Lindsley of Wichita, Kan.; and Robert R. Fortune of Collingswood, N. J.

Deming Girls' Club Enjoys Dinner

PERIOD OF HENRY VIII INSPIRES HAT DESIGNER

Florence Reichman, American milliner, has gone back to the days of Henry VIII for inspiration for her latest collection of hats. The model at the top left is a pink paillette straw Henry VIII beret type. It is trimmed with pink and light blue feathers and is worn thrust over one eyebrow. Right is a large white felt off-the-face hat with a brand new idea—a crown made completely of tiny green leaves, the brim also being decorated with these small, fern design leaves. The hat shown below is a perfect example of the Tudor influence. It is called an Anne Boleyn turban because it was suggested by the head-pieces worn by that queen. It is made of red paillette straw with navy grosgrain brim, and it covers all the hair except that in front. It is wonderful for tea dancing or motoring, as well as for windy days.

Jenkins said here. Previous reports said Allied Chemical would build the defense project. The army currently is conducting a health and housing survey here in connection with the plant.

SENATE STENOGRAPHER by MAXWELL THAYER

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Neither Gale nor Murray felt like working and when Gale told him that Colburn wanted the bill moved, he merely said he'd tend to it and sat where he was, staring out the window.

Gale grabbed for the telephone when it rang, some subconscious thought telling her it must be Joe Nash, and it was.

She agreed to meet him in the Walnut room of the hotel as soon as she could get away. He arrived there ahead of her and had selected a table in the shadows near the wall when she entered. He rose and went toward her.

"The tables over here," he said, and led her toward it.

Both ordered and when the waiter had gone, Gale looked up at him. "Joe," she said, "I'm dying of curiosity!"

He grinned back at her and then his face became serious.

"Gale, I wish you'd quit your job and come to work for me."

"But Joe," she replied, "I get a good salary, and I don't know whether it would be a good idea for me to work for you or not."

"It would be better than working for the wrong people, wouldn't it? At least you'll have a job you know is well the right kind."

"Just a minute, please," Gale paused as the waiter brought their creel. "I don't know what you mean by 'the right kind,' but I do know that I'm treated very well and am earning good money."

"Anyone who works for Colburn makes money," he said it quickly, and when Gale's face showed cold resentment, he made matters worse by reaching across the table, patting her hand and going on. "I shouldn't have said that. I was only thinking of you. Colburn is a politician-for-pay and Murray is no better; I hate to have you associate with that tribe."

Gale got up from the table. "I thank you for your concern," she said, "but I must be going." And she left an astonished secretary to the governor sitting there.

Gale hadn't left the Walnut Room half a block behind before she slowed her walk, half-decided to go back. She was thinking that she didn't want to keep him by surrendering, and running to him for a job. She wondered why she had resented his criticism of Murray and Colburn. They didn't mean anything to her.

At the corner, she stopped and looked toward the hotel entrance, but there was no sign of Joe, so she reluctantly walked on toward her apartment.

Gale did not hear from him that night, although she sat by the telephone and attempted to convince herself into thinking she was reading a magazine. Several times she was tempted to phone him but each time she stopped.

Next morning, as soon as she could dress, she made a bee-line for the coffee shop where he said he ate frequently. He wasn't there, so she ate alone, scanning the morning paper. Her one happiness was that the morning paper said nothing about the fight. The matter, she hoped, was dead.

There was no message from Joe in her office and there was no phone call from him during the morning. At the lunch hour, she walked by the governor's office but she did not see him.

In the capitol corridor Gale met Elaine, who told her that Murray's bill would be on the Senate floor for debate at 2 o'clock and that they'd go hear it together. Gale agreed and hurried on to her office where she dialed the governor's office but a female voice informed her, "Mr. Nash is out to lunch" and asked if there was any message. Gale said "no" and hung up, her heart aching. She wondered if Joe had taken someone else to lunch.

Elaine broke into the mood by announcing they had better hurry. When Gale entered the Senate gallery with Elaine, she saw Joe Nash below her and beside him, smiling into his face, was Marie Gibbins. Gale's heart sank and she turned to go when Elaine pressed her arm.

"Something's up!" exclaimed Elaine, pointing. "Look, there's Joe Nash, next to him the Attorney General and next to him Captain Buckle of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation. They can't sit in the gallery and listen to every bill."

Gale's knees felt weak. She welcomed the seat into which Elaine half pushed her. She was full of worry, fear and jealousy, and could not take her eyes off the quartet below. Every time Marie pulled on Joe's lapel or tugged at his arm to whisper in his ear, Gale felt a tug at her heart strings.

Marie had been Murray's stenographer before her and Gale felt that Joe might be playing Marie for information, but then she remembered that Elaine had told her that Marie was set on getting Joe.

Maybe the only reason he wanted her, Gale, to leave Murray and to come to work for him was to pump her on what the big lobby group was doing.

She tried to concentrate on what Senator Murray was saying.

"...so gentlemen, I offer this bill. I feel it will fill a long felt public need, will increase the revenue to the state and will harm no one."

Gale noticed a black wreath on a senator's desk and supposed it was where Senator Smiley once sat. She wondered if Murray's colossal nerve. There he stood, straight and dignified, his right hand resting on his desk, speaking across that wreath, misinforming the Senate about a bill that would benefit one company and one man mainly.

Gale looked down on Nash and his companions, noticed they were engrossed in the address, and turned her attention back to Murray who was thundering:

"I have given of my time and my energy for a mere pittance because I believed it my patriotic duty. This is my last session. This is my last bill. I feel that if this measure is made the law, I shall retire to private practice, stepping aside for some younger and, I hope, some abler man."

"While this measure has great merit, I am making this a personal plea, that you approve it and give me the satisfaction of having accomplished the last good I can while a member of this body."

He sat down amidst applause and then the lieutenant governor called for the roll, the chief clerk beginning his drone of names.

Gale did not know the bill had been approved until people started filing out. Elaine told her there were only six dissenting votes.

She re-entered the office alone and slumped into her chair. Gale felt she wasn't up to politics. The wreath, the hypocrisy of Murray's speech, the presence of Joe and Marie and the two officers, the Attorney General and Captain, had unnerved her.

She wished fervently that she had chosen some other work, or at least had taken Joe Nash's offer. She must get out and get out now, before it was too late.

What she was about to do, Gale never remembered afterwards, but she was on her feet heading for the door when Murray came bounding in.

"Congratulations, my dear," he said, patting both hands on her shoulders, "we've won a smashing victory!"

"Yes, I knew," Gale said, "I was in the gallery. I heard your address." She paused. "And, I also saw the wreath."

Murray's hands came away from her shoulders. One went into his coat pocket, the other toyed with his watch chain, striking a pose as he said: "Regrettable, very regrettable. Smiley was a fine senator, a fine upstanding man; of course, sometimes he didn't have the touch, but he was a fine man. His death was a great loss, a great loss indeed."

She faced him with a scornful gaze and he looked down at the floor. After a brief pause Gale remarked, "Sitting in the gallery listening to you was Joe Nash, Marie Gibbins, the Attorney General and a captain from the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation; they seemed very much interested."

His face showed disbelief and turned a shade lighter, to that under the makeup the bluish on his chin showed plainly.

"That must have been just a coincidence," he blustered. "You know how those things happen; just accidental."

"Just accidental that your former secretary should be with the governor's secretary when the governor is suspicious of the Smiley matter, and when you are debating the monopoly bill?" Gale was torturing him and enjoyed watching him squirm. "And just accidental that the Attorney General and that crime specialist should be present?" Murray picked up the telephone with faltering hands, gave a number and asked for Cedric Colburn. "No, no message," he said as he hung up. He walked slowly back to his private office and closed the door.

Gale tried Colburn's number, too, identified herself, and was told that he was over in the Assembly chamber. She went out quietly to find him, and bumped into Senator Daws, whom she had met informally on several occasions. He stopped her.

"A fine address Jeff made today. I never heard him in better form."

Outside the Assembly chamber she found Colburn talking to several men. Without seeming to do so, Gale gave him a sign to follow her. He lowered his eyes in acknowledgment, and went on talking.

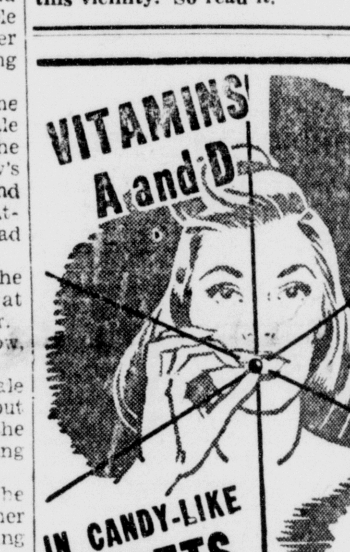

She stopped near the stairs and waited. In a moment, he joined her. "What's up?" he asked.

She told him of Nash, the girl, the officers listening to the debate and what she suspected, and he said he'd look into it.

It takes a long time for anyone to become really proficient in any trade, craft, or profession. Frequently, it's easy to learn the necessary theory in just a short time, but proficiency in applying this theory in a practical way is something else again.

I am always impressed, therefore, by a long record of practical experience. Funeral firms such as the Stark Memorial—with three generations of service behind it—are obviously in a position to offer a more distinctive, more thoughtful service than firms having only a brief experience in the profession.

SWAGGER FUR COAT SERVES FOR DAY OR EVENING

The purchase of a fur coat may not sound much like an economy measure to friend husband or father, but one garment will do multiple duty, so it really is a good buy. Swagger coats are particularly popular in Hollywood today, and the swaggers shown above may be worn over afternoon dresses, sports outfits or evening gowns. Some wonderful youthful styles in mink are being shown, and at left above Dorothy Lamour is wearing a loose-fitting model in that fur with mink also trimming her chic hat. Linda Darnell, center, chose a natural gray kidskin with notched lapels and new melon sleeves, slim swagger lines and slip pockets. Right is Carole Landis wearing a leopard spotted cat with matching hat. Wide bell sleeves, "little girl" collar and slim boxy lines distinguish this coat.

Bowl Bids At Stake As Nation's Best Wind Up '41 Grid Seasons

ARMY, NAVY MEET IN SERVICE GAME AT PHILADELPHIA

Stanford, Oregon, Georgia, Oregon State Date

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The nation's first lady became its most impartial football fan today—and also one of the luckiest, for she had two of the 93,942 seats for the 42nd meeting of Army and Navy.

President Roosevelt, commander-in-chief of both services, couldn't come. But his wife accepted, and through tradition must sit with this year's hosts, the Cadets, during the first half, moving across the turf to "stand Navy down the field" in the second.

She was only one of a host of notables who came from all over the nation for the annual spectacle, which incidentally this year promised near-perfect weather.

Forty-one special trains, extra transport planes, buses and endless lines of motorcars poured into the city.

Everyone wanted to get to Municipal Stadium early. For while game-time was set for 1:30 p. m. (E. S. T.), the biggest thrill of the day comes with the entrance of the cadet corps and the regiment of midshipmen.

Blak's Coaching Lauded

Among the handsome coaching jobs of which this football season has had more than his share, one of the super-duper efforts has been that of Earl Henry Blak, the keen-eyed civilian and former West Pointer whose Army team takes the field as underdog.

Blak and the four assistants he brought from Dartmouth moved in on the military academy last spring after Army's most disastrous season, in which it scored only one victory and that by one point over a minor rival.

Using virtually the same material, they whipped it into a smooth-working unit, instilled in it tremendous spirit and drive, and brought it up to this afternoon's battle with a record of five victories, a fine tie with unbeaten Notre Dame, and losses to two of the Ivy league's best, Harvard and Penn.

No one is more aware of how good a job Blak and his men have done than Major Emery E. (Swede) Larson. The handsome marine, due back on active duty shortly, gets his final shot at the Cadets this afternoon and realizes that, after winning three winning years as a player and two coach, this may be the toughest.

Other contests where the gold and silver of bowl bids are at stake are included in today's gridiron finale. It will take almost a score of games to unravel the puzzling January 1 situation.

Stanford, California Meet

On the west coast, where the mystery is greatest, the defending champion Stanford club takes on the Golden Bears of California with a victory needed to give the Indians another Rose Bowl candidacy. Further north Oregon and Oregon State collide, with the latter club also hunting a win to inform the Bowl committee of its availability.

Most of the day's action, however, is concentrated in the South where Mississippi and Mississippi State meet at Oxford for the unofficial championship of the southeastern loop—and any invitation the mailman may bring.

In the same general area, Louisiana States meets its choicest rival, Tulane. Tennessee plays the surprising Vanderbilt eleven, and Georgia mixes with Georgia Tech. Vanderbilt and Georgia are bowl candidates.

The South also furnished all the action on last night's sharply-cutlaid program, with Alabama trimming the sophomore-studded Miami University squad, 21 to 7; Rollins blanking Howard, 28 to 0; Newberry trimming Erskine, 27 to 0; and Oglethorpe blasting Troy, 21 to 0.

VALPARAISO, Ind.—The pinch of defense activity on general labor struck members of the local Chamber of Commerce almost "below the belt." Assembling for their regular weekly Board luncheon, members were told regretfully of the hotel management that there wasn't a single waiter left in the hotel's employ—they had all taken jobs in defense work. Unruffled, the members served themselves.

SAN FRANCISCO—Californians apparently decided to buy automobiles before the war might curtail production. During the 1941 model year a new peak of 329,910 cars was established—41 per cent above the preceding 12-month period.

BOWLING RESULTS

Meissner's Service strengthened their hold on first place as they shut out the National Sanitary Shoppers in the Federal league last night at the Masonic temple alleys. Sheen's Marine, in second place, lost a little ground as they took two from the Sanitary Foremen.

The Eagles retained third place as they copped two from the K. of C. In the other match of the evening, Brownies took two from the cellar-dwelling Beeler's. High scorers included Morrison and Meissner of Meissner Service, 213 and 210, respectively. Ward of Sheen's with games of 209 and 214, and Vince Malloy, Jr. of Brownies, with a 203.

The Colonial Finance and Eagles No. 1 teams of the Grate Ladies league, who gave the pins a shellacking in a league tilt at Grate's last night, will compete in the Women's Central States handicap tournament at Saginaw, Mich., next Saturday night and Sunday. The Finance keggers cracked out a new high three-game total last night, hitting a 2,576. Olive Ramsey helped boost the total with a 599 series, also a new high for the season to date.

Grate Ladies' League
The Colonial Finance keggers held their grip on first place in the Grate Ladies league by taking two of three from Eagles at the Grate Alleys last night. Olive Ramsey of the Finance five rolled a 214 in her first game to help her compile a 599 series. Coy's Buicks slipped down from second as they were shut out by Haldi's. Kaufman's lost a good chance to take over second place as they lost two to the A. A. A.

In the other matches of the evening the Trades Class copped two from the Salem China, Eagles No. 2 took the same number from Hi-Ho, Schwartz's won two from Endre-Gross, the Polo Club scored a two-out-of-three win over Salem Motor and the A. A. A. won two from Kaufman's.

Gow of the A. A. A. rolled games of 192 and 205 to score a 552 series.

GEORGE SPENT ALL LAST SEASON WARMING THE BENCH

Goshen Wins Second; Trims Beloit, 33-28

Goshen High's basketball team scored its second victory in two games by defeating Beloit, 33-28. Each had 13 field goals but a five point edge in fouls provided the margin for Goshen. Stanley of Goshen and Strugh of Beloit were the main cogs in their teams' attacks, each hooping 11 points to divide scoring honors. Goshen is scheduled to play Berlin Center at home Tuesday night when they will be after their third win.

Men 17 To 50 Wanted For Naval Reserve

Will Be Kept On Active Duty Only for Duration Of Emergency

According to an announcement made this week in Washington by order of Secretary of the Navy Knox, "All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."

Enlistment in the U. S. Naval Reserve is for four years but, if a man enlists today and the emergency ends within a period of several months, he will be returned to his civilian job as soon as possible after the emergency is over, and will not be required to complete his four year term in active service.

Four Classes Needed

Four classes of service in the United States Naval Reserve need men urgently today. They are Class V-3, which includes radio and communications; V-5, aviation; V-6, for trade specialists or men desiring trade or vocational training; V-7, fleet officers. A more detailed outline of each class follows below.

Men with specialized training in radio, searchlight and semaphore signaling or Morse telegraphy may be enrolled in Class V-3, the communications class of the Naval Reserve. These men will be enlisted as petty officers with ratings according to their degrees of proficiency. Pay for men enrolling in this group ranges from $50 a month for a petty officer third class to $99 a month for a chief petty officer. An additional allowance of $1.15 per day is made for men with dependents who have the rating of petty officer second class or higher. A man with at least two years of

Ensign Wayne Morris Seeks Wings

Wayne Morris, recent star of "I Wanted Wings," became a member of Uncle Sam's Navy in May, 1941, when he was appointed to the rank of Ensign.

When asked what he thought of the United States Navy, Morris said, "I think every man who is considering joining a military service should look into the 'chance of a lifetime' which the Navy and Naval Reserve offer to get into the big-pay field of the future—aviation. In the Navy you can attend the finest flight training schools in the world, and receive instruction from Navy pilots who introduced dive bombing, aircraft carriers and catapult take-offs to the rest of the world. Also, there are opportunities in Naval Aviation for men who don't want to fly. They can be trained as aviation machinists, metalmiths, photographers, observers, or they can receive instruction in many other trades. It's a great life in the Navy."

college education who desires to enter naval aviation will be enlisted as a seaman second class in Class V-5 of the Naval Reserve. After a month's preliminary training the V-5 recruit will become a naval aviation cadet and will be sent for advanced training to one of the three principal naval flight training centers: Pensacola, Fla.; Jacksonville, Fla.; or Corpus Christi, Texas. On completion of this advanced course which requires approximately seven months, the V-5 cadet will be designated as a naval aviator and will be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Becomes Cadet

During the first month of training, V-5 recruits are paid $93. On completion of the first month's training the V-5 recruit is designated as a naval aviation cadet and will be paid $75 a month, plus $1 per day living expense. Upon commission as an ensign his pay will be increased to approximately $245 a month and in addition he will receive regular pay bonuses of $500 for each year he serves in active duty after the training period.

Class V-6 in the Naval Reserve offers opportunities for men with specialized training to continue their trade and at the same time serve their country. This group includes specialists of any kind such as electricians, carpenters, machinists, stenographers, accountants, plumbers, cooks, bakers and many other trades and vocations. These men will upon enlistment be given ratings in accordance with the amount of previous specialized training they have had.

Men with no previous specialized training will be enlisted in Class V-6 as apprentice seamen with pay of $21 a month. Directly following enlistment the new recruit will be sent to one of the four naval training stations for a short period. At the training station the apprentice seaman will be given an aptitude test and if he passes this test successfully he will be sent to a navy trade school. Approximately 3500 men are admitted to navy trade schools each month. This schooling, valued at hundreds of dollars, is free and the seamen receive their regular Navy pay while receiving instructions.

Those applicants who do not pass their tests for admission to a navy trade school will be sent to duty aboard ship where an opportunity will be given them to train in a trade. Four months after enlistment all non-specialized applicants in Class V-6 will be advanced automatically to seaman second class with a pay increase to $36 a month.

Men with previous specialized training of any kind will be enlisted in the naval reserve class V-6 with petty officer ratings and will be sent immediately to the ship or shore stations where they are needed.

Enlisted As Midshipmen

College graduates who desire engineering or deck duty as officers in the U. S. naval reserve will be enlisted as midshipmen. Upon completion of a four months' training course these men will be commissioned ensigns in the naval reserve. During the training period midshipmen are paid $65 a month. As ensigns with commissions the pay will be approximately $143 a month with an additional allowance of $40 a month if they are married.

All applicants for the U. S. naval reserve must be native-born citizens of the United States with the exception of candidates for Class V-5 who must have been United States citizens for a period of at least ten years.

Detailed information with regard to enlistment in any class of the U. S. Naval Reserve may be secured by writing to or calling the Navy editor of The Salem News.

There are about 100 United States post offices and six sub-stations in Puerto Rico.

SENATE RECEIVES CONTROL MEASURE

Badly Battered Price Bill Not Likely To Be Law Until 1942

some of the eliminated provisions could be restored in the senate or by a joint senate-house conference committee.

As approved by the house, the bill would authorize a price-control administrator to establish ceilings over commodity prices which get out of line with the rest of the price structure, but a board of review provided at the insistence of the Republican membership, was empowered to set aside his rulings upon appeals.

The administrator also could prescribe ceilings for rents in defense areas, based on rents prevailing around April 1, 1940, if state and local governments failed to adopt his recommendations for such regulations within 60 days.

What had promised to be the major fight of the bill—the attempt of the administration to write into the measure power for the price administrator to use a system of licensing as an enforcement aid—sputtered out and amounted to little more than a gesture.

Content Licensing Essential

Spokesmen for the present price administration contended that the licensing system was essential and cited a report by Herbert Hoover when he was food administrator during the World war that licensing was the backbone of his control. It was contended that by placing the selling of commodities under a general license, the administrator could punish violators by revoking their licenses to deal in the specific commodity involved. That, it was argued, would be less drastic than invoking the bill's criminal penalties calling for fines up to $5,000 and a maximum of two years in jail.

The bill cleared its remaining major hurdle before the final vote when a motion by Rep. Sumner (R-Ill.) to send it back to the banking committee was rejected by a standing vote of 171 to 134.

Theatre Attractions

The "First Actress of the Screen" . . . Bette Davis . . . in her characterization of the title role of her latest triumph, "The Little Foxes!"

Bette Davis reates on the screen the role of Regina Giddens, first portrayed on the stage in Lillian Hellman's successful drama, "The Little Foxes," which will be the State's attraction Sunday through Tuesday.

Herbert Marshall is seen as Horace Giddens, Regina's husband, victim of his wife's determined and dangerous scheming for wealth and power. Richard Carlson and Teresa Wright are seen, respectively, as the daughter of the family and the young reporter whom she loves. Patricia Collinge, who appeared in the same role in the stage success, is seen as the sister of the determined Regina, and Charles Dingley as her equally vicious brother Dan Duryea has the role of Regina's weakling nephew and Benton Reid, that of the other avicious brother.

Title From Quotation
The title is a quotation from the Song of Solomon—"Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines," and refers to the destructive character of the people in the story.

The picture is Miss Davis' latest bid for another Academy Oscar and marks another success in the filming of stories first written as stage plays. Lillian Hellman, author of the play, adapted the story for the screen.

Wednesday and Thursday the State will show Edward G. Robinson's "Unholy Partners," with Edward Arnold, Laraine Day, Marshall Hunt and William T. Orr, story of a fearless newspaper editor who comes to grips with New York City's post-Armistice racketeering. Jeanette MacDonald and her husband, Gene Raymond, with Brian Aherne and Ian Hunter are seen in the principal roles of "Smilin' Through," technicolor remake of the story, long a stage and screen favorite. The picture shows Friday and Saturday at the State.

The Grand's billing for the week opens with the Sunday-Monday and Tuesday showing of the action drama, "Texas," with William Holden, Claire Trevor, Glenn Ford, George Bancroft and Edgar Buchanan. The picture deals with turbulent early history of Texas and the men who made that history.

A mystery-adventure, "The Gay Falcon," with George Sanders and Wendy Barrie; and a comedy, "Unexpected Uncle," with Anne Shirley, James Craig and Charles Coburn, make up the Wednesday only double bill at the Grand.

Showing Thursday through Saturday at the Grand are "The Rough Riders," latest adventure "The Gunman from Bodie," featuring Buck Jones, Tim McCoy and Raymond Hatton as the three western adventurers; and a new episode in the career of the fictional sleuth, "Ellery Queen and the Murder Ring," with Ralph Bellamy and Margaret Lindsay in the featured roles.

Showing for the last times tonight at the State is the highly recommended "One Foot in Heaven," with Fredric March and Martha Scott. Concluding tonight at the Grand is "Secrets of the Lone Wolf," with Warren William; and "Jesse James at Bay" with Roy Rogers.
